Guzar - Krasnovodsk - Pahlevi - 1942

August 4th 1941

General Wladyslaw Anders is released from Lubianka prison, Moscow.
He begins formation of 2nd Corps in Buzuluk.

January 15th 1942

Anders moves his HQ from Buzuluk to Yangi-Yaul near Tashkent (capital of Uzbekistan).
Other army enrolment posts are set up in Kirgishstan, Kazakhstan (inc. Lugovoj) and Tadzykistan. (I would assume that the Sikorski Institute in London has details of all these collection points - unless there is a book listing them, which I'm unaware of).

Between 42 March 26th - April 10th

33,000 military and 11,000 civilians are evacuated out of the USSR.

At the same time, on 1st April, all Polish units formed in the USSR fall under British command.

August 1942

Second mass evacuation of Poles from USSR to Persia. While 98% of the evacuation is by tanker across the Caspian (from Krasnovodsk to Pahlavi) an overland evacuation of 701 soldiers and 1,936 civilians (many orphans) also occurs.

January 16th 1943

Moscow informs Polish GOV-IN-EXILE that all remaining Kresy deportees will be considered Soviet citizens. This puts an end to further plans for evacuation.

Apparently Sikorski was pushing for a third evacuation of Poles from the USSR. This occurred just after the Katyn war crime was uncovered. Churchill was trying to pacify Sikorski (ie. shut him up) but negotiating with Stalin for one last evacuation of Poles from the USSR. It seems that Sikorski was going for this plan just when, conveniently for everyone, his plane crashed.
